10. The objectives of the Program/activity/event	☐ To acquaint students, faculty members, researchers, and the general public with the life, philosophy, and contributions of His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama. ☐ To create awareness about Tibetan history, culture, heritage, and the significance of Tibetan Buddhism in promoting peace and human values.

	☐ To disseminate the Dalai Lama's teachings on compassion, non-violence, universal responsibility, and interfaith harmony. ☐ To encourage dialogue and reflection on contemporary global issues such as peace, human rights, cultural preservation, and ethical leadership. ☐ To provide an educational platform through visual displays, archival materials, photographs, and outreach activities that enhance experiential learning.
11. Description of the Program/activity/event	The exhibition and outreach programme titled “The Life and The Times of The Dalai Lama” was organized at Goa University with the objective of introducing the university community and the general public to the life, teachings, and global legacy of His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama. The programme highlighted his journey from his early years in Tibet to becoming one of the world's most respected spiritual leaders, advocates of peace, and promoters of compassion and non-violence. The exhibition featured a curated collection of photographs, informative panels, timelines, and visual narratives depicting significant events in the Dalai Lama's life. The displays provided insights into Tibetan history and culture, the institution of the Dalai Lama, the Tibetan diaspora, and the Dalai Lama's efforts to promote interfaith dialogue, human values, and peaceful coexistence across the world. As part of the outreach component, students, faculty members, research scholars, and visitors were encouraged to engage with the exhibition through guided visits, discussions, and interactive sessions. The programme served as an educational platform for understanding the principles of compassion, tolerance, ethical leadership, and universal responsibility that form the cornerstone of the Dalai Lama's philosophy. The exhibition attracted participation from various departments of the University and members of the wider community, fostering greater awareness of Tibetan culture and heritage while encouraging reflection on contemporary issues related to peace, human rights, and global harmony. Through its visual and educational content, the programme successfully promoted intercultural understanding and reinforced the values of dialogue, empathy, and mutual respect among participants.

12. Benefit/Key outcomes of the Program/activity/event	The exhibition enhanced participants' understanding of the life, teachings, and global contributions of His Holiness the Dalai Lama. It provided valuable insights into Tibetan history, culture, and heritage, fostering greater intercultural awareness among students and visitors. The programme encouraged reflection on the values of compassion, non-violence, peace, and ethical leadership in contemporary society. Through visual displays and interactive engagement, participants gained a deeper appreciation of the importance of dialogue, tolerance, and mutual respect. The activity also enriched the academic and cultural environment of Goa University by promoting informed discussions on global issues and human values. Overall, the programme successfully sensitized participants to the significance of peaceful coexistence and responsible global citizenship.
